

ME TO YOU
SAMEN STERK

I am a young hematologist graduated from Université Libre de Bruxelles in 2020. I work at Centre Hospitalier EpiCURA (Hornu & Ath) where I preferentially take care of patients suffering from myeloid neoplasms. I am member of myelodysplasia committee and myeloproliferative neoplasms committee of the Belgian Hematology Society.

Motivation:

Every day, as a hematologist, we support patients and their relatives in the fight against disease. Innovative treatments for hematological malignancies can only emerge through the dedicated advancement of research.

An initiative like the “Me to You” project is essential in providing the necessary opportunities for young researchers to develop their leukemia research.

By joining the advisory committee, I want to help the foundation to identify the most promising projects and thus have the opportunity to contribute indirectly to advancements in the treatment for leukemia patients.
